

Dr. Sigman-Grant retired as a MCH and Nutrition Specialist and Professor with the University of Nevada Reno Cooperative Extension in 2015, prior to which she was an Associate Professor at Penn State University. Throughout her extensive career as both a practitioner and academician, she has devoted her efforts to improving the lives of children and their families. In addition to serving on the 2017 Healthy Eating Research-Robert Wood Johnson's Expert Committee for Infant and Toddler Feeding Guidelines, she served as Guest Editor for the JNEB WIC

Breastfeeding Supplemental Issue. Madeleine has worked with the NV Dept. of Health & Human Services, Division of Public and Behavioral Health as well as with the National Academy of Sciences Institute of Medicine; National Institutes of Health; American Academy of Pediatrics; Academy of Nutrition and Dietetics; and International Life Sciences Institute. In 2012, she was named Nevada Dietitian of the Year and was inducted into the Medela Breastfeeding Hall of Excellence. She received the 2014 Western Region Award in Excellence in Extension as well as a Nevada Women of Achievement Award. Dr. Sigman-Grant earned a BS in Nutritional Sciences (specialty-dietetics) from UCLA; a MS in Nutrition from Loma Linda University; and a Ph.D. in Nutrition from the UC Davis. She is currently an Associate Editor for JNEB as well as a technical writing consultant.